System Overview

The Movie Theater Ticketing System is designed as a web-app, so it should be compatible with most operating systems and web browsers. When the user first enters the website, they enter a navigation page to select which movie they want to watch. Then, they are sent to a page where they can select which seats in the theater they want to sit at. If the user is not already logged in, they are sent to a login page, where they will be redirected to a payment page after logging in. Otherwise, they are sent to the payment page directly. Once the user pays for the ticket, they are sent to a confirmation page, where they can choose to confirm or cancel the ticket.
